

QUALITY POLICY

ALMAMET has committed itself to introduce a quality management system according to the EN ISO 9001 standard to improve control over the quality aspects of operational procedures. Our goal is to assure that our products conform to requirements to avoid complaints. At the same time, a healthy, safe working climate is to be achieved through explicit instructions and logical processes. The satisfaction of all staff members in the workplace is an important prerequisite and our declared goal.

Compliance with all legal and official requirements – particularly in the occupational health and safety sector – is a commitment for the company and for all of its employees.

ALMAMET also takes its responsibility for the environment seriously to ensure that the environment is a place worth living for future generations.

We expect all of our employees to meet the requirements of the quality management system and continuously strive to enhance its effect.

The system will set and communicate quality goals. To which extent these goals are achieved will be an important criterion for the assessment of the system's success.

But the success of the system primarily depends on the professional and reliable operating methods of ALMAMET's staff and partners.

It is our duty to introduce the system,
our success if it is applied.

Alexander Rhomberg
Management

Ainring, October 22, 2012

